

Early in the morning on Friday, I watched Lord Venkatesa and his beautiful consort Alamelumanga.

1. His ornaments are kept aside. They tied waist cloth skillfully and he was bathed with perfumed water. Then they dressed him well with dhoti. His complexion is black like bees. He is looking calm.
2. Gold bowls are filled with camphor powder. His body is smeared with it. Everyone is gazing in wonder. The Lord is shining like jasmine flower.
3. High quality perfume, civet is collected in pouches and melted. It is placed in silver plates and is applied all over his body. Venkateswara is delighted to enjoy the 'Abhisheka' ritual.
