

In this devotional song, Annamaiah describes Lord Vishnu who appeared in different incarnations to protect Dharma (righteousness).

I bow to you, Oh Narayana. Narada worships you.

I bow to you again and again.

1. You are Mukunda, Madhava and the destroyer of Mura. You fly on Garuda bird and you have lotus at your navel. You are the liberator. You are the supreme. You took the form of animal and man; I bow to you again and again.

2. You recline on ocean. The sun and the moon are your eyes. Brahma worships your feet. You vanquished Bali. You are the lord of Gopikas. You have lotus on navel. I bow to you again and again.

3. You are the primordial God. All the scriptures adore you. You are the fascinating lord of Yadavas. You restored Vedas. You love music. I bow to you again and again.
