

Annamaiah expresses his immense joy in seeing Venkatesa and describes Him as his treasure, parijatamu (wish-fulfilling flower), chintamani (precious stone), and kamadhenu (wish-fulfilling cow). He adds that Venkatanatha is the panacea to solve all his problems.

Oh Purushottama, we have found you. Oh king of Pushkarini tank, don't leave us.

1. Oh deity of my family, you took care of us. You are the treasure our elders gave us. You are the water bearing cloud to quench our thirst. Oh Srinivasa, you are in our conscience.

2. You are the wish-fulfilling Parijata tree. You are Chintamani the divine gem to protect us. You are Kamadhenu, the divine cow, to fulfill wishes. Oh Lord, You are our safe abode.

3. You are our sacred mantra to lead our lives piously. You are the divine medicine to cure all diseases. You are always with me like my close relative. Oh Venkatesa, you are my Lord.
